International Conference

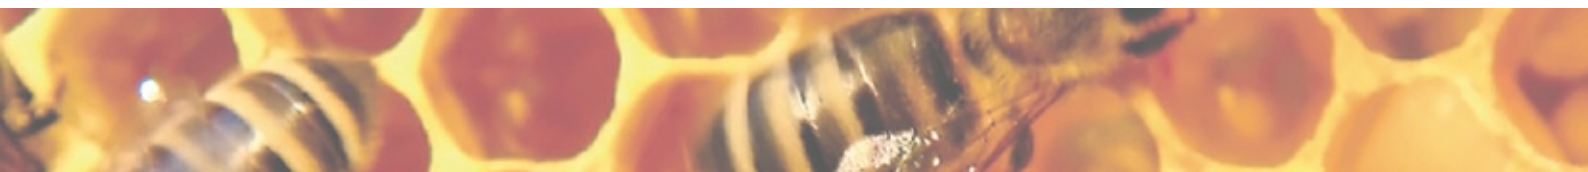

CNR-Aula Marconi

Piazzale Aldo Moro 7, Roma

14 September 2011

Consiglio Nazionale delle Ricerche (CNR), European Science Foundation (ESF), and Istituto Nazionale di Fisica Nucleare (INFN), joined forces to organise a conference on peer review. In particular, they aim at presenting and discussing the recently published European Peer Review Guide, which is the result of a common effort made by more than 30 national research funding and performing organizations from 23 countries, the European Science Foundation (ESF), the European Research Council (ERC), the European Commission and the Research Executive Agency (REA). The European Peer Review Guide contains suggestions for a European and international good practice in peer review processes taking into account a comprehensive survey, the ESF survey Analysis Report on Peer Review Practices which benchmarked and identified good practice amongst the many different systems and criteria currently in use in European countries. The Guide represents a practical reference document at the European level and intends to encourage a standardized enforcement of the best peer review practice.

The Rome conference is an important occasion to discuss the many different approaches on peer review applied by Italian Institutions within the European scenario/agenda.
